THE FASHION IN DAHOMEY.

There are other curious things about these people besides their dress. Their houses have walls of clay or reeds and sharp-pointed roofs of straw. The furniture consists of colored wooden platters and stools, which are covered black by long burial in the mud, and their only light is a burning pine knot.

Before the house is usually a post, on which are hung trophies of the hunt, such as horns of antelopes, skulls of animals and men, and horrible to say, dried hands and feet. These proclaim to the world how great a warrior is the owner, and, in part, answer the purposes that fine houses and clothes do with us.

When a Niam-Niam pays a visit to his neighbor he carries his own stool to sit on, and when he goes into mourning for a friend he shaves his head and scatters his precious braids, (twists and puffs, to the wind; which certainly shows sincere grief on his part.

When two friends meet they do not shake hands, but they join their middle fingers in such a way that the joints crack, while they nod at each other, more as if in disgust—as it looks to a white man—than in friendly greeting.

If they find a hollow tree in which wild bees have stung up honey, they at once smoke the bees stung, and eat honey, wax, bees and all.
Indeed, they eat several things that we would not like. The children are some parts of Africa eat rats and field mice, which they catch by means of baskets woven in the form of long tubes. They are laid flat on the ground, near the mouse holes, and then the little savages bring in a great noise of stamping, shouting, and clapping of hands. The poor little animals are frightened, and run into the traps for safety, and are easily taken. They are then tied by the tails in bunches of a dozen or so, as you have seen children tie cherries, and bartered with each other as bait to catch eels—roast eat being a favorite dish. The build small rats of twisted reeds, put the mice in, and cats are attracted to this trap of course.

The grown people feast on still stranger diet, such as the bodies of their enemies killed in battle, elephant meat, dried till it looks like a log of wood, dogs and the termites, or white ants, of which you may have read, and whose immense cone shaped houses are so common in Africa.

No important thing is begun without consulting certain signs to see if it will be successful. Some of these are very curious. One is to put a few drops of water on a smooth-topped stool, then take a smooth block and rub across the stool as though to place it off. If the block moves easily, the sign is good; if hard, the sign is bad.

Another trial is to dose some unfortunate hen with a certain greasy liquid. If she dies the sign is bad. If she gets well it is good.

But the hens are not the only sufferers. Another way to turn one's luck is to seize a wretched cock, duck him under water many times till he is stiff and senseless, and then leave him alone. The fate is decided by his recovering or dying. The guilt of any one accused or suspected of crime is tried in the same way, and no one dreams of suspecting one whose signs have shown favorably.

To protect themselves from the danger and loss of fires, they provide no fire engines and insurance companies, as we do, but hang an amulet made—for those who are Mohammedans—of a few verses of the Koran, or for Muham-medans, wrapped in skin, over the door, which must be admitted is a much cheaper and simpler way than ours.

If a horse or donkey is ill he is dosed with raw pork, but a human being has for medicine a few verses of the Koran, made soft in water.
St. Nicholas.

AQUEDUCT BRIDGE—A correspondent of the Washington Republican writing from Alexandria county says:—"In the name of a much oppressed community, resident in the neighboring counties of Virginia, we desire to call the attention of Congress to the pressing necessity of relief from the cruel impositions of that hard-hearted monopoly, known as the Alexandria Canal and Aqueduct Bridge Company. The through the exactions of this close corporation in their demands for an exorbitant toll rate the people of Alexandria and Fairfax counties are, in their social and business relations with Georgetown and the city of Washington, suffering to an unprecedented extent. Promises of relief for many years have been made to our ears and broken to our hopes. Our representatives have on the hustings threatened death to this usurpation, but it still lives, sucking the blood of its victims. Of the produce of our hard labor and industry, which necessity compels us to market in the District, a large margin goes to this outrageous monopoly in the shape of toll; we must satisfy this Shylock with one pound of flesh, or remain starving on the southern bank of the Potomac, seeing heaven and feeling hell. Surely such oppression is against the genius of the present century, and has not the time come for the abolishment of such old traditional landmarks as toll-gates on our highways and toll-bridges across our rivers, especially at the very threshold of the Capitol.

The "bill" recently introduced by Senator Hatchcock, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, promises a fortasse of that relief so long hoped. While we wait the avenues of approach to our National Capital should on all sides be free and unobstructed and it is always given great satisfaction to see the drowning man catches at the floating straw, even we clutch with eagerness this quasi-measure."

PINO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION—At this time, when Coughs and Colds are so prevalent, we would again call attention to the above invaluable Preparation. It has been used by hundreds in this vicinity since we have been the agents for it, and it has always given great satisfaction. Put up in large bottles at one dollar, and small ones at fifty cents. The trade supplied at proprietor's rates.
